Thursday a Special Exhibit of Handsome Trimmed Hats

At $15.00, $18.50 and $25.00

—The popularity of beaver, hatter's plush, and velvet will be especially noted. These three are evidently scheduled to be the leaders in the new fabrics for fall hats.

—Large picture styles are coming to the front at present and, starting in so early, is an indication that they will probably continue in that popularity all the winter, judging from conditions in the past.

—The trimming is, perhaps, a little more elaborate than in the past season. The use of ostrich feather trimming is another fact of which to take particular note, as it is prophesied that it will be very greatly used. Buckles and ornaments, though they may be scarce and difficult to secure are, nevertheless, going to be extremely popular; other trimmings which will have quite a vogue are small flowers.

—Some of the hats are quite striking with their dark tops and light colored facings, such as pink, blue, and sand. And these light facings make the hats particularly becoming.

—Small, smart styles have their particular devotees. They are especially desirable for wear with the plain tailored suits.

—And most women feel the necessity of having both the large and the small hat as a part of the fall wardrobe, as there are occasions when one will be more suitable than the other.

—Blue, black, purple, and taw de Negro are the favorite shades for the coming season, with black, of course, in the lead.

—Our display tables will be filled with these handsome trimmed hats tomorrow. Come out and see what stunning new styles we have for your selection at these three prices.
